

LOU BERGHOLZ

MANAGING PARTNER and FOUNDER, EDGEWORK CONSULTING

Lou is entering his 17th year of work with Edgework and has over two decades of experience working with teams, organizations and communities on their most pressing human capital and human development issues. Lou has helped build Edgework's unique "Knowledge Lab," and internal research and learning system that fuels all of Edgework's design and facilitation work.

Lou has worked with organizations ranging from global financial firms to top--tier academic institutions on leadership, management, and team structures. Clients include: Acadian Asset Management, Bank of America, Boys and Girls Clubs of Canada, MIT Sloan, Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth, Up2Us Sports, the International Rescue Committee, Cornerstone Research, EnerNOC, Boston Children's Hospital, Bain Capital, UNICEF, Mercy Corps, Grassroot Soccer, Accenture, CARE International, Newtown Parks and Recreation Department, and McKinsey & Co.

He is known for his dynamic presentation style and integration of the most up-to-date trends and research in learning and development. Lou is a graduate of Cornell University with a BS in Human Development. He currently resides in Seattle, Washington.

ABOUT EDGEWORK CONSULTING

We are a team of entrepreneurs, facilitators, coaches, artists, competitors, and network builders, who believe that real progress is made through collaborating, communicating, and challenging mindsets. We go where people, teams, organizations, and communities want to grow. We do this through Edgework: boundary-pushing ideas, behaviors, strategies, and programs.

Edgework tackles projects ranging from building high performing teams to addressing community trauma. At its core, Edgework aspires to do work that improves the human condition and human performance.